CHIEFTAIN

the 1990s, the number of people with a mental health problem has increased by 50% (Mental Health Foundation 1999). The prevalence of mental health problems has increased in all age groups, but the increase has been most marked in the young (Mental Health Foundation 1999).

There is a growing awareness of the need to address the mental health needs of young people (Mental Health Foundation 1999). The National Institute for Mental Health (NIMH) in the USA has estimated that 10% of the population under the age of 18 has a mental health problem (NIMH 1999). In the UK, the prevalence of mental health problems in young people is estimated to be 10% (Mental Health Foundation 1999).

The Mental Health Foundation (1999) has identified a number of factors which are thought to be associated with the development of mental health problems in young people. These include: genetic factors, environmental factors, and psychological factors. The Mental Health Foundation (1999) has also identified a number of factors which are thought to be associated with the progression of mental health problems in young people. These include: social factors, psychological factors, and environmental factors.

Decades come, decades go

A dawn of a decade? But which decade? It could be any century from the late 1700's to just a few decades ago.

Several CHS students visited the Red House (antiques, soda fountain and museum) in October. The establishment was a bank that went "under" during the Depression days.

Each decade has a dawn, and each a sunset. Each presents challenges and dreams. And as each decade passes, it provides artifacts that become the antiques of the future. Is this the fate of digital clocks and pocket calculators?

Yes, 'That's Entertainment'

When Bob Dylan wrote, "Times They are a Changin'" was it a comment on society as he knew it, or a prophecy for the 1970s? Because "a changin'" we did!

For example, from the beginning to the end of this past decade, change has dealt a death blow to school events and activities. Amid the unrest of the late 1960s, teens still held to traditional ways of expressing activities. Homecoming, dances, proms, mardi gras and senior trips remained high on the student's list of priorities.

However, the "dawn of the 80s" finds us with little direction or interest in traditional activities. If this has changed, then where are we heading?

The center of the student's social life has been continually drifting away from the school. Traditional values (even pride in the school) have been discarded by some. It is even tough to "get up" a good cheer block for Homecoming or sectional.

This might be fine for the student following the trend, but what is happening to the traditionally active student? The athlete? The Club member? The student who has been somewhat intimidated by those who "put down" school activities? What do the 1980s have in store for schools and students? Some suggest that the pendulum is swinging back to more school oriented activities. However, from what we can see there is little evidence of a trend in this direction.

And how have activities outside of the school changed? The trend in the media seems to be toward more sensational, escape entertainment. Need some time to reminisce? Consider the following examples from the late 1960s and the early 1970s: "Easy Rider," "The Graduate," and "M*A*S*H." "The 1970s included "The Sting," "American Graffiti," "Star Wars," "Animal House," and "Saturday Night Fever." And for those who feel that "once wasn't enough," there was "Godfather" and "Godfather II," and "Jaws" and "Jaws II," and "The Exorcist" and the son of exorcist: "The Omen." Or for those audiences whose tastes ran more in the line of disaster, Hollywood managed to destroy practically everything known to mankind. "Flicks" included "The Poseidon Adventure," "The Towering Inferno," "Earthquake," "The Swarm" and the "Airport" series of airline calamities. You remember, those were the ones with big name stars and ex-athletes making appropriate facial expressions conveying intended doom, as each plane teetered on the brink of no return.

In the past decade the movie industry has murdered more gangsters than the Mafia has, or ever will have in its membership. It has also turned sweet little girls into growling, hissing devils spewing grotesque substances from the mouth. (Something which of course mothers, since the beginning of time, have forbidden us to discuss, or especially to describe in public).

This was also the decade we were really "into it." That is into jogging, into skateboards, into tennis, into racketball, into skiing and into roller skating.

Controversies were also big in the 1970s. We were irate over: Vietnam, Watergate, abortion, pollution, gay rights, women's rights, nuclear energy, and ecology. However, the most ridiculous of all had to be Rock vs Disco. We realize that all of you classical fans sat this controversy out. After Vietnam, Civil Rights and Watergate, it was a little difficult to get extremely excited over musical intolerance.

Nostalgia was "tops" with television viewers in the late 1970s. Game shows were recycled "just one more time" for the afternoon crowd. "Gilligan's Island" inhabitants were finally rescued and a "Father Knows Best" special was aired with the original cast members all grown up.

"Mork" landed from Ork, poodle skirts returned to "Happy Days," "The Waltons" finally made it through the Great Depression, and Chevy Chase continued to take pratfalls on "Saturday Night Live," however only on a guest basis.

Finally, "60 Minutes," a news show, sensationalized their way to the top of the TV ratings. As the topics became more extreme, the rating continued to climb. The dawn of the 1980s brought another change in television journalism. Walter Cronkite, the "great white-haired father of broadcast journalism," retired as CBS anchorman of the evening news. His replacement? Why, you guessed it! That sex symbol of "60 Minutes" was selected. However, there are those who would "Rather" switch than fight!

CHS finds winning way

Victory was in the making on September 28 as the Warriors clinched their first season win against Emerson 20-0.

Halftime included the crowning of Lori Morganroth as 1979 Queen. Lori was a member of Honor Society, Pep Club, Student Council and Warriorettes.

Lori received an engraved necklace, and other court members key chains to commemorate the occasion.

Hey, let the spirit in!

"SCHOOL SPIRIT" is the only way to describe the week of September 25 to 30.

Students participated in this week by dressing according to a planned schedule. The week was made up of Hillbilly Day, Favorite Sports Day, 50's Day, Mourning Day and Red and White Day.

A poster contest and pep sessions were held throughout the week to help "lift" school spirit.

The Senior and Sophomore team defeated the Junior and Freshman squad in the annual Powder Puff game held at the end of the week. The score was 14-6.

Helen's life becomes drama

Calumet audiences entered the world of the deaf and blind on November 8, 9 and 10, as drama students performed the "Miracle Worker." The production traces the early life of Helen Keller.

Barb Czaplá, junior, served as assistant director for the play. The production was held in the school auditorium.

What's your name, please?

Just put your name here. Remember keep it clean my Mom will read this!

Purchasers of the 1979 Chieftain were present on September 11 for the annual yearbook signing party.

Staffers manned the booths for distribution, as students gathered in line to collect their "book of memories." Tables were provided in the fieldhouse foyer for students to linger and write in their friends' books.

The theme of the book was "A Special Moment . . . Pass it on." Robin Cox, graduate, served as editor of the 1979 book.

Season captured in dance theme

Sparkling tinsel and flickering candles greeted couples at the Christmas turnabout dance on December 8.

The annual event, entitled "Candlelight Reflections," was sponsored for the fourth year by the Indiana Health Occupation Student Association (I-HOSA) in the school's fieldhouse foyer.

A mixture of disco and rock music was provided by "Merge." Spasoff Photography took photographs of couples for the occasion.

Refreshments included mint and nut cups and punch.

Music, music holiday music!

The yuletide season brought music to our ears! CHS' Band, Drama and Choral Departments helped to usher in the holidays with musical concerts.

Drama and Chorus performed the traditional nativity play on December 7. "Band Fair," a six piece brass section, also performed.

Band members "tuned-up" on December 13 for their annual evening concert.

Fill the plate and the tummy

Plates of pasta greeted guests at the Office Education Association's (OEA) annual Spaghetti Supper on March 20.

Group members prepared and served approximately 230 ticket holders. The organization received approximately $724 from the sale of dinner tickets.

The annual affair was held in the school's cafeteria from 5:30 to 8 p.m.

Proceeds from the event were used to finance the group's expenses to regional, state and national competitions.

Tickets were $2.50 for adults and $1.50 for children.

Some of the ingredients used in the dinner were donated by area businesses.

The man is holding a small object in his hand and has his arm around the rabbit's shoulder. The rabbit costume is wearing a hat and a suit jacket. The background is dark and indistinct.

'Harvey' wins by a 'hare'

Yes Virginia, there is a "Harvey." The invisible rabbit made his appearance at the Drama Department's spring production of the play by author Mary Chase.

The performances of the comedy, "Harvey," were held in the Calumet auditorium on the evenings of March 21, and 22.

The story's action centers around a small town man, Elwood P. Dowd, who adopts an imaginary six feet tall rabbit as his best friend. Other family members attempt to have Dowd committed to an institution.

CHS honors grade winners

Although Calumet has only two honorary organizations, both groups were active in the spring inducting new members and honoring the old.

Honor Society held a candlelight induction ceremony on April 24 in the school auditorium. An oath was administered to the 34 inductees, and refreshments were served in the cafeteria following the ceremony.

Quill and Scroll held their third annual Journalism Honors Banquet on May 14 at San Remo Restaurant.

A representative of the "Post Tribune" presented the Senior Most Valuable Staffer award to Sheila Baker. The "Hammond Times" Most Valuable Underclassmen award was received by Lisa Murawski, junior. Patrick Ard, sophomore, was cited as Most Contributing Newspaper Staff Member. Pins were given to staffers as a present from Quill and Scroll.

How to honor thy seniors

Winners were in abundance at the annual Senior Banquet on May 6. Academic, club, and "gag" awards were given at the dinner held at Teibel's Restaurant.

Academic recognition was presented to Bill Gibbs, Valedictorian, and Dawn Upchurch, Salutatorian. Bill was also cited as the CHS Bausch and Lomb Science Award winner for 1980. Other certificates presented included I-Hosa awards, Hoosier Scholarships for Academic Excellence from Indiana State Student Assistance Commission, and attendance awards.

Prom proves formal affair

Months of preparation, requiring "tons" of money finally "paid off" on May 2 as the 1980 Junior-Senior Prom became a reality.

Couples gathering at the Salvatorian Hall in Merrillville danced to the music of "Sircus", a local band. Juniors Myra Benjamin and Phil Werno were crowned King and Queen of the annual event.

"Stairway to Heaven," was chosen as the dance's theme by the committee of juniors sponsoring the affair. Mrs. Karen Alvarez, faculty member, served for the first time as sponsor for the Junior Class.

Spasoff Studio provided photographs for the spring formal dance.

Grads collect CHS diplomas

Some with smiling faces, and others with tearful eye collected their diplomas at commencement on May 18. Approximately 295 seniors participated in the ceremonies held in the fieldhouse.

Speeches were delivered by Bill Gibbs valedictorian and Dawn Upchurch class salutatorian. Other speeches included the invocation by Tammy Travis, Class vice president; the welcome by Cindy Ramos, class treasurer, and appreciation by John Oaks, class president. Mr. Herbert Abramson, superintendent, presented diplomas to the graduates.

Vocational clubs have emerged in the past decade to become perhaps the most popular and effective of the school organizations. Service, booster and academic clubs have not fared as well.

During the '70s decade Federal money, under Title 4, became available to supplement vocational and career areas. Organizations in those areas also flourished. Calumet has four organizations in the vocational area.

What has made vocational clubs successful? The combination of social activities with skill contests and competitions.

However, the service organizations have not been as successful. The groups have had little success motivating the self-centered student into making charitable contributions. At CHS, organizations do little to support national, state or local charities. They ignore the National Cancer Society, Easter Seals, Muscular Dystrophy, Muscular Sclerosis, etc. Schools were once instrumental in raising funds for these organizations. However, today students appear to be primarily concerned with what they can get out of the club, with a minimal amount of input.

Another major fault with today's clubs is their loosely organized structure. Rarely will one find the executive officers of a club holding a meeting to set up the agenda, prior to a meeting of the membership. Parliamentary procedures have all but disappeared in many organizations. A completely informal atmosphere has taken its place. The problem with informality is that it produces an atmosphere in which there is a lack of learning experiences, and encourages disorganization. Informality has allowed organizations to fall into a pattern where social desires prevail, and the club lacks purpose. For even college sororities and fraternities, which are social organizations, work toward fundraising goals.

The lack of enthusiasm for school activities has been especially evident in the booster-type organizations. Attendance in cheer blocks has fallen. Enthusiasm and spirit are low priorities.

Perhaps, the most disappointing case of club failure is in the academic organizations. These are the clubs that ideally are an extension of the classroom. It is true that Biology, Chemistry, foreign language, yearbook, newspaper, band and chorus still exist as organizations, however, the groups with impressive attendance sometimes have geared their activities to social functions. Little extension of classroom, or service to the school or community remains. Academic groups that continued to follow a purposeful path, have often dwindled in size.

Clubs and organizations must certainly mirror the behavior and attitudes of society. Today's society is more self-centered, and Calumet's clubs reflect this attitude.

Honorarys are the final major group of organizations in the school. The two clubs at Calumet falling into this honorary category are Quill and Scroll and National Honor Society. Perhaps, the major frustration for both groups is the general disinterest in achieving this honor, or failure to hold it in high esteem.

The Honor Society's major obstacle is the current system for determining the members of the honor roll. For many years honor roll has been determined, not by grade point average, but by compiling all A's or all A's and B's for the grading period. Under the current system, a student with all A's and one C might not be eligible for honor roll, but he/she has a 3.6 grade average.

Another positive step that the honorarys might consider is to strengthen the requirements for membership during the first two years of high school. The requirements could then return to their present levels during the junior and senior years. This method might help to increase the prestige of the organization.

Perhaps, the '80s will produce organizations more structured and meaningful in purpose. Many of the changes that occur in clubs will reflect the changes that society will make. Some individuals predict that inflation and the energy crisis will bring the school back into the center of the student's life. However, if students continue to look at clubs as self-serving, then the organizations will continue to be shallow in purpose.

Societies, council hold annual school activities

What do you have when you combine studying, hard work, and students with determination? The answer is the members of Honor Society, Quill and Scroll and Student Council. Members of Honor Society and Quill and Scroll are expected to maintain good grades. Student Council members are elected by the students.

Honor Society held induction ceremonies in the spring. Quill and Scroll held their annual banquet also in the spring. The Post Tribune and the Hammond Times presented awards for Most Valuable Staffer for upper and underclassman.

Student Council was in charge of all Homecoming festivities.

Trips, plays, club projects

Chemistry and Biology clubs entered floats in the Homecoming parade. During the year Chemistry club members assisted in tornado drills at area schools. They worked with the Civil Defense on the drills.

Mr. Jay Austin was a guest speaker to the Biology classes on January 24. On January 24 the Chemistry Club attended the Museum of Science and industry in Chicago. Bill Gibbs, senior, was awarded the Bausch and Lomb Science Award. This award is given to a senior with the highest grade point average in science subjects.

Drama was very active this year. They performed the "Miracle Worker" and "Harvey." Drama also sponsored the second annual Christmas Pageant on December 17.

Groups travel, discuss, shift

Both foreign language clubs sampled foreign cuisine during the year. Members of German and French clubs traveled to area restaurants to experience foreign dishes.

French Club members also attended a crepe demonstration at the high school in the spring, sponsored by the "Magic Pan." Participants of the organizations sold key chains and candy during the year to finance their activities.

Bible Rap met periodically during the school year to discuss aspects of religion.

News Bureau experienced a reshuffling during second semester. Members who prepared articles for area newspapers, used bureau time to fill in gaps for newspaper and yearbook staffs.

Year active for clubs

A lack of membership in both the "Chieftain" yearbook and the "Warrior" newspaper groups presented all types of problems for the staffs during the school year. During the second semester, yearbook totaled only four students, and newspaper finished the year with only five.

Dispite personnel problems, the paper managed to publish 12 issues (9 four page, 1 six page and 2 eight pages) during the course of the year. Yearbook, with only four staffers completed a 120 Page yearbook.

Chorus held two concerts during the year. The group combined with the Drama Department and presented a Christmas pageant for students and the community. Chorus members also performed a spring concert in May.

Exploring how to get a job

What are you doing for the rest of your life? The vocational clubs at CHS have a head start.

Indiana Health Occupations Students of America traveled to Indianapolis during October for state elections. I-HOSA sponsored the annual Candlelight Reflection dance which was held December 8. They also sponsored the Red Cross Blood Drive on March 17, when 138 students donated their blood. They also raised money by selling candy.

Office Education Association raised money by selling candles, Calendars and candy canes. On March 30 OEA sponsored their annual Spaghetti Dinner. The organization competed in regional contests held at Gary Career Center. Qualifying members then participated in state competition held in Indianapolis.

Industrial Cooperative Training delivered food baskets, prepared by C-Teens members during the holidays. ICT members traveled to the District I regional competition at Purdue University in Hammond on March 16. Marvin Doty, senior, won first place in body and fender competition.

Service, spirit spur groups

Two all-female groups were "all active" during the past school year.

Approximately 65 C-Teens members traveled to Ross Care Center in Merrillville to carol at Christmas for patients and staff members.

Another service activity sponsored by C-Teens was the annual Thanksgiving and Christmas food baskets. Members collected canned goods (donated by students) and turkeys (provided by the Student Council), and created baskets for needy area families.

The Warriorette pom pon squad struggled through a series of changes. The group totaled only 16 members, and for the first time in several years, the squad did not meet daily during school hours.

Group members did receive new practice uniforms and a new sponsor this past school year. Miss Melissa Churley, new faculty member, sponsored the spirit group that performed at football and basketball games, and at the Village Christmas Parade.

Band adds 'Jazzy' unit

The Calumet High School Band Department added a Jazz Band during the school year. The Jazz Band played at the Christmas and Spring Concerts. They also held a concert on April 16, at the Southlake Mall.

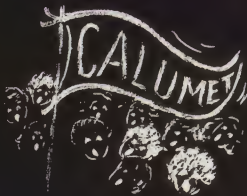

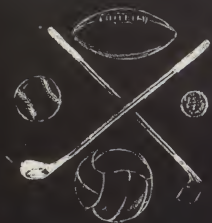

The CHS band held their annual Spring and Christmas concerts on December 13 and March 27. Band members participated in the annual solo and ensemble contest on February 2, at Highland Junior High School. Band members received 25 gold and 20 silver medals. The Band also participated in the annual Blossom time parade held May 3 in Benton Harbor, Michigan.

The CHS cheerleaders were very active during the school year. The girls sold ribbons and cowboy hats during the sectional week. The money collected from selling the ribbons and hats went for the purchasing of new uniforms.

A decade of athletic competition has produced a variety of changes in high school, collegiate and professional sports for men and women.

For girls, perhaps Title 9 has had the greatest influence on the scope of high school sports. The Federal law, passed in the early '70's, demanded that schools provide equal opportunity for both boys and girls to participate, and to make available comparable funding. Since that time, girls' athletics has grown at Calumet from the Girls Athletic Association (GAA), an organization for girls playing sports within the school, to a full program of athletic opportunities. Calumet's girls now participate in extracurricular (varsity) competition in Cross Country, Volleyball, Basketball, Track and Tennis.

Money may prove to be the key to the 1980s. A financial "crunch" may be around the corner for both boys and girls sports in Indiana. With increased demands for funding of girls, and the expansion of boys sports, the structure for funding is being stretched to its limits. Currently Indiana law forbids the use of tax money to fund athletics in the schools. The proceeds from games, and fund raisers in the school and community generate the revenue to support all varsity sports in the school. This current system is strained to its limits. Indiana legislators will have to again evaluate the current system in the 1980s. This "crunch" will certainly surface in the coming decade, producing a critical situation in which legislators and taxpayers will be forced to restructure the system.

Athletics, like so many other areas, reflect the attitudes and desires of society. That reflection is often both positive and negative.

Today's athletes are certainly more specialized. More sports are offered (Boys Cross Country, Volleyball, Boys Tennis, Girls Basketball, Boys Basketball, Wrestling, Boys Track, Girls Track, Girls Tennis, Golf and Baseball) and, therefore, students are offered more variety in participation. Why has specialization been positive? Specialization has resulted in an improvement in the skill level of athletes. Coaches have also been affected by specialization. The expansion of sports has produced coaches with greater orientation and commitment to their respective sport.

However, society's negative aspects have also influenced high school sports. The student's social life has gradually moved away from the school environment. This movement has had an impact, both spiritually and financially on varsity athletics. Materialism and self-centeredness have drawn the student away from school activities, and the result has been a decrease in revenue.

Perhaps, the most neglected phase of athletics at Calumet has been intramurals. Intramurals involves the fielding of teams within the school to play one another. This area has disappeared completely at CHS. Is there no interest here? Intramurals have unfortunately been neglected. However, the interest is probably there, and if emphasized, the program would help to involve students in sports and in school. A more pronounced effort needs to be made in the area of intramurals.

Many coaches hope to see a coming decade where school spirit and involvement is revitalized. The athlete has survived his/her fellow student's general lack of enthusiasm for school activities. However, athletics is an intangible that makes school more enjoyable. Without sports, the school environment would be lessened. This would create a spiritual vacuum. Sports after all, add to the school community of spirit.

Guerrero, Ewen named MVP's in fall sports

Calumet's Cross Country Team had their largest turnout in recent years. Senior Cisco Guerrero was the team's captain and was also voted Most Valuable Player. Cisco was also a participant in the Chicago Marathon.

Girls Cross Country had their first season at CHS. Viiss Debbie Fray served as coach for the four member squad. "From the first practice, until the final meet, the girls improved steadily," commented Coach Fray.

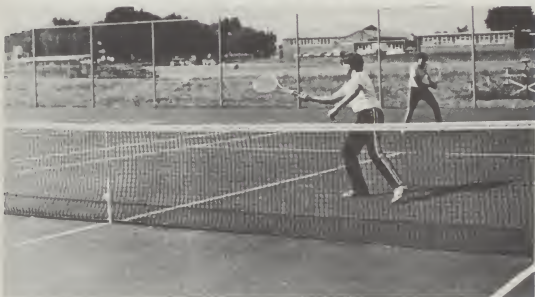

The Boys Tennis Team had a disappointing season. Captain Brook Ewen, junior, was named Most Valuable Player.

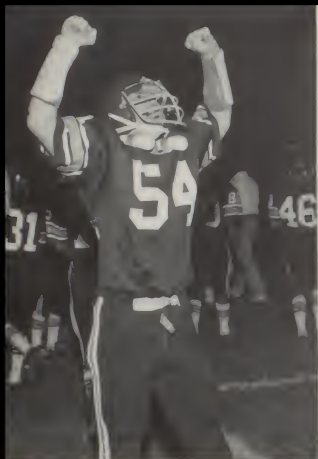

"Our losing season was due to a lack of experience," explained Coach Joe Starkey. The coach indicated that a more experienced squad would probably have produced a more successful season.

Grid problems plague players

The '79 season was filled with surprises. Seniors Luka Kljajic, Teddy Coopwood, Jim Wadkins and Greg Widelski were named to the Post Tribune All-Conference Football Team.

Although lacking a successful record, Coach Lou Lindinger commented, "This year's squad is more talented than last year. Even though the record doesn't show it."

The Varsity team began the season with 50 members, and by October they had less than half that total.

The JV squad also had a disappointing season. Sophomore quarterback Tom Rutledge threw for over 400 yards. Leading in touchdowns for the squad was Tony Fairbanks, junior. The Freshmen were coached by Mr. Charles Cole and Mr. Bob Mizera.

Quaife, Gora win top honors

CHS Varsity Volleyball was successfully in second place at the completion of sectional action. Mrs. Judy Smith was a new coaching addition to the volleyball JV staff.

The Varsity Girls' Basketball team progressed to the semi-finals of sectional play at Lake Central. The JV girls' team also added a new coach, Mr. Rick Parker.

Seniors Michele Quaife and Mary Ann Gora won double honors when they were selected All-Conference in both Volleyball and Girls' Basketball at the conclusion of the seasons.

Happy times for Warriors

Calumet had its own "magic" Johnson and a "Cross to boot." Life in the fast lane was true enough for the Warriors with 15 wins and 7 losses. The Varsity squad members were required to play out the same sectional drama, but with a different set of characters. Last year Merrillville eliminated CHS in sectional play. This year the "villains" were the Highland Trojans.

Mr. Carl Triacoff was again named Lake Suburban Coach of the Year by his peers. Cid Cross also received an honor when named to the All-Sectional team.

The JV team was coached by Mr. Joe Olis, and they finished the season with a 3-17 record. Mr. Woody Feeler coached the freshmen to a 6-10 season.

Jim Wadkins, senior, went to regionals in Indianapolis and placed fourth in the state. Ranging from seniors to sophomores they had a job to do. And do it they did. The Varsity captured their sixth sectional. This was the third regional in Calumet history. At the Winter banquet Jim Wadkins was named MVP.

Junior Varsity captains were Bill Gibbs and Jeffrey Welch. The Freshmen were coached by Mr. Fred Sanchez. Head Coach Roland Beckham commented, "We had the toughest schedule in the Northwest region of Indiana."

Giving that extra effort!

The phrase "go for it" was the motto of the CHS track team, as they strived for faster times. The runners pushed for better times, after grueling practices and rainy meets.

The Warriors' leading sprinter was John Wilson, sophomore. Most Valuable Player, Tony North, senior was a leading quarter miler. Tony was also the defending 440 champion. His best time was timed at 50:2.

Other players named by the coach as outstanding were seniors, Teddy and Greg Coopwood, Cid Cross, Exavier Johnson and John Heresz.

Track, tennis obtain new coaches in '80

New faces in leadership positions were evident in Girls Track and Tennis team.

Miss Debbie Fray served her first year as head track coach. Tammy Strauabel, senior broke the school record in the discus with a 117 feet throw. Debbie Robbins, senior also set a record of 5'1" in the high jump. Debbie, Tammy, senior Wendy Rumba and sophomore Lita Borens all quailified for sectional.

Coach Jerry Tauber completed his first year as Girls Tennis coach. According to Coach Tauber, the team's inexperience was their greatest problem during the season.

Michlele Quaife, senior was named Tennis' Most Valuable Player. Number one doubles players were Diane Allbritten and Sheila Baron.

Bur-r-r times for spring

A cold spring hampered the Boys' Golf and Baseball teams. Both squads were required to play a somewhat shortened schedule.

Four instead of "fore" was the golf team's slogan because of such a small turnout for the organization. The golf team's Most Valuable Player was junior Steve Bizzel. Steve shot an 83 for 18 holes. He also finished in the top ten at the Lake Hills Invitational.

Junior, Jeff Morris pitched a no-hitter against Bente Central, their last game of the season.

Looking at faces in '70s

A decade of faces produced a variety of news-making events. The 1970s were full of excitement, turmoil, enthusiasm, disappointment, positive moments and times of despair.

On August 8, 1974 Richard M. Nixon became the first U.S. President to resign his office, and Gerald Ford succeeded him becoming the first appointed President. Earlier, in 1973, Vice President Spiro T. Agnew had resigned his position under fire. Jimmy Carter was the third President to serve during the '70s decade.

Two olympic competitions provided moments of sadness and joy during the decade. In 1972 America's olympic swimmer, Mark Spitz, captured seven gold medals. However, tragedy struck in Munich when terrorists killed members of the Israeli team that they were holding hostage. Olga Korbut, the Soviet Union's gymnast, stole the hearts of many when she captured three gold medals.

In 1976 Bruce Jenner

clinched the decathlon title in Montreal. Calumet had its own special contribution to those games in 1976. Rhonda Brady, graduate, was a member of the U.S. women's track and field team.

Dorothy Hammil, figure skater, won many fans in the 1976 winter games competition. Dorothy captured a gold medal and also made a hair style extremely famous.

Several celebrities, many having enormous impact on their respective fields, died during the decade. Among those who exerted tremendous influence, Arthur Fiedler, 84, conductor of the Boston Pops Orchestra for 50 years. Also Golda Meir, 80, former Prime Minister of Israel died on December 8, 1978. Others with great impact were Julius (Groucho) Marx, Charlie Chaplin, Guy Lombardo and John Wayne.

Two members of the music profession, both responsible for shaping the style of music in their respective fields, died in 1977. Bing Crosby and Elvis Presley both put their personal stamp on their work, and their individual contributions to the field of music were completely unique.

One of the most tragic events occurring in the decade involved 911 members of the People's Temple Commune in Guyana. On November 18, 1979 all 911 members died in a mass suicide-murder. Another event with a mixture of both tragedy and joy came in 1974, when American POWs were returned by North Vietnam. This was a joyous event, in an otherwise frustrating, controversial and divisive war.

Calumet personalities of the decade included Valedictorians Austin Moore, Debra Burt, Donna Cheliras, Nancy Lowell, Chris Dywik, Jerry Tauber, David Banning, Steven Cook, Dan Jewell, April Weeks, Donna Ferguson, Kim Ortman and Bill Gibbs. Salutatorians of the decade included Rosalyn Kallas, Elaine Dywan, Terri Lynch, Janis Zimnawoda, Theodore Wilkins, Susan Cervantes, Michele Cook, Janis Brubaker, Kathy Hodge and Dawn Upchurch.

Perhaps, the major highlight of the decade came in 1974. On April 8 Hank Aaron hit his 715 homerun. The blast from Aaron's bat broke the 47-year-old record held by Yankee Babe Ruth. Oh Henry, how sweet it was!

Ending a year, and a decade

Frustration was the key emotion Americans felt concerning the Iranian issue. In November, 53 Americans were taken hostage by Iranian students at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran. As the year drew to a close, they were still held captive.

Volcanic ash spread across the country when Mount Saint Helens erupted in Washington in May. This marked the first volcanic activity in the U.S. in this century.

Miami was the focal point of much activity during the spring. Thousands of Cuban refugees flooded South Florida. Racial unrest also broke out in Miami in May. Rioting caused the implementation of curfews and the use of National Guard troops.

80's

a dawn of a decade

The problems of this decade is nowhere more evident than in this 1980 Chieftain yearbook.

Plagued from the beginning of the school year, the completion of this book is nothing short of a miracle. Students lacked the desire to join staff, or once on, to continue and see the job through. The bulk of this book was done by three students, an adviser and the school photographer, Mr. James Spasoff.

Even the Senior Class exhibited a general apathy toward the production of this, their last yearbook.

Therefore, the small group of staffers who worked on this 1980 "Chieftain" are to be commended for their work, and the student body is to be blamed for this publications' size and scope.

For apathy is a disease that eats away at enthusiasm. It is the worst possible state of human conditions. QUIT is an ugly four-letter word that is becoming a common status for students.

Where do we go from here? Most of us wish for better in the '80s. The future may hold a world of promise, or a continuation of indifference.

STAFF: Sheila Baker; Cherril Baize; Barbara Baize; Miss Francine Blaney, adviser; Patrick Ard, photographer.
